UMDPL launched a series of animated films “You and Police” for youth

On 21 September 2016 regional activists of monitoring campaign “Police under Control” held a working meeting during which presented was a 6-episode animated cartoon for youth “You and Police”, produced by the studio Real Stories Production in cooperation with the Association UMDPL. Participants of the meeting also discussed the issue of proliferating the series in the regions and conducting educational and awareness raising activities using this video.

An animated film covers the most common situations a teenager can face when talking to police. The film describes 6 typical cases: “Open up! Police”, “Show me a passport! What’s in the pocket!”, “Come to an investigator right away”, “You are being detained for an administrative offence!”, “Police Violence”. All these topics are being described based on personal experience by the cartoon characters – a teenager Vas-Vas and his older sister Olenka. The film is, first of all, aimed at teenagers of 14-16 years old as well as at all interested people who would like to raise their legal awareness of how to talk to police officers.
